

corpse – a dead body, usually referring to a human.
The forensic team examined the corpse for signs of foul play.

livestream – a real-time broadcast of an event over the internet.
She hosted a livestream to share updates with her audience.

conspiracy influencer – a person who promotes and spreads conspiracy theories to their followers online.
The conspiracy influencer gained attention by claiming hidden truths behind major events.

round-the-clock – continuous, without stopping, for the entire day.
The hospital provides round-the-clock care for its patients.

decay – the process of decomposing or breaking down over time.
The old wooden house showed signs of decay after decades of neglect.

dub – to give an unofficial name or nickname.
The young athlete was quickly dubbed the “Flash” for his incredible speed.

in the wilds of – in remote or untamed areas.
They ventured into the wilds of the Amazon rainforest on an expedition.

slender – gracefully thin or slight in build.
The slender branches of the tree swayed in the wind.

mere – something small or insignificant in size or importance.
It took a mere five minutes to finish the task.

tempo – the speed or pace at which something happens, particularly in music or activities.
The tempo of the song increased, energizing the dancers.

in the meantime – during the time before something else happens.
Dinner will be ready soon; in the meantime, you can set the table.

remotely – to a small degree or from a distance, often referring to actions done via technology.
She managed the project remotely, checking in from her home office.

leafy – having many leaves or trees; lush with foliage.
They chose a leafy suburb to enjoy a quieter lifestyle.

flare – to suddenly burst out in strong light or flame.
The match flared brightly before settling into a steady burn.

pollen – a fine powder from flowers, crucial for plant reproduction but often causing allergies.

During spring, the air was filled with pollen, triggering her hay fever.

riveting – something that is extremely interesting or captivating.

The movie was so riveting that she didn't look away for a second.

tower over – to be much taller or more imposing than something or someone.

The skyscraper towered over the small buildings around it.

stinky – having a strong, unpleasant smell.

The garbage was so stinky that he had to hold his breath while taking it out. corpse – a dead body, usually referring to a human.

The forensic team examined the corpse for signs of foul play.

livestream – a real-time broadcast of an event over the internet.

She hosted a livestream to share updates with her audience.

conspiracy influencer – a person who promotes and spreads conspiracy theories to their followers online.

The conspiracy influencer gained attention by claiming hidden truths behind major events.

round-the-clock – continuous, without stopping, for the entire day.

The hospital provides round-the-clock care for its patients.

decay – the process of decomposing or breaking down over time.

The old wooden house showed signs of decay after decades of neglect.

dub – to give an unofficial name or nickname.

The young athlete was quickly dubbed the "Flash" for his incredible speed.

in the wilds of – in remote or untamed areas.

They ventured into the wilds of the Amazon rainforest on an expedition.

slender – gracefully thin or slight in build.

The slender branches of the tree swayed in the wind.

mere – something small or insignificant in size or importance.

It took a mere five minutes to finish the task.

tempo – the speed or pace at which something happens, particularly in music or activities.

The tempo of the song increased, energizing the dancers.

in the meantime – during the time before something else happens.

Dinner will be ready soon; in the meantime, you can set the table.

remotely – to a small degree or from a distance, often referring to actions done via technology.

She managed the project remotely, checking in from her home office.

leafy – having many leaves or trees; lush with foliage.

They chose a leafy suburb to enjoy a quieter lifestyle.

flare – to suddenly burst out in strong light or flame.

The match flared brightly before settling into a steady burn.

pollen – a fine powder from flowers, crucial for plant reproduction but often causing allergies.

During spring, the air was filled with pollen, triggering her hay fever.

riveting – something that is extremely interesting or captivating.

The movie was so riveting that she didn't look away for a second.

tower over – to be much taller or more imposing than something or someone.

The skyscraper towered over the small buildings around it.

stinky – having a strong, unpleasant smell.

The garbage was so stinky that he had to hold his breath while taking it out.